THE FORMER ATTORNEY GENERAL IS TO BE SUMMONED

SENATE BODY IS TO QUIZ PALMER

Former Attorney General Will Be Asked to Tell Whether He Assisted McLean In the Latter's Dealings With Fall

UNDERWOOD SAYS THINGS

Senator Walsh Disclosed to the Committee That Underwood Did Mention McLean to Him —Leaders Will Put Daugherty On Trial Before Tribunal

Washington, Feb. 28. — (United Press).—A. Mitchell Palmer, Attorney-General in Wilson's cabinet, will be summoned by the Senate oil committee to tell whether he helped McLean, Washington publisher, try to stifle a Senate investigation of McLean's dealings with Albert B. Fall.

The committee today decided to subpoena Palmer, whose name appeared in telegrams exchanged between McLean and his employes, which were submitted to the committee. Palmer, in some of these telegrams, had reported to McLean as preparing to work on Senator Walsh to prevent McLean being questioned.

Senator Walsh disclosed to the committee this morning that Senator Oscar W. Underwood, presidential candidate, did mention McLean to him just after the senate committee had decided to send Fall to Palm Beach to question McLean.

Washington, Feb. 28—(United Press)—Administration leaders will put Attorney General Daugherty on trial before some congressional tribunal without delay.

After he had had a hearing, President's intention regarding Attorney General Daugherty, who left Washinton with dramatic suddeness yesterday leaving behind defiance to his enemies was final.

"It is not my purpose to consider tendering my resignation as Attorney General until after a fair hearing on charges preferred against me," Daugherty said.

If the Wheeler resolution is decided on today as the means of giving Daugherty his hearing, it will be called up at once. Its adoption can be delayed by Daugherty's friends, if they want. The political situation in the senate will permit them to hold it over until tomorrow. There was in the senate considerable debate as many of the senators want to explain how they stand on Daugherty before they vote. Senator Willis, Ohio, Daugherty's personal and political friend, will have charge of Daugherty's interests.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 8—(United Press)—"I am no quitter," Attorney General Dauherty told United Press today when he arrived here for conducting grond jury investigation under veteran bureau. Daugherty was veteran bureau. Daugherty was greatly heartened by telegrams of confidence, he said, he had received from all parts of the country.

"A winner never quits."

Miss Emma G. Lemen, of Philadelphia, the state children's division superintendent, will outline the work for the coming year. This institute and conference is of interest to all the Sunday school teachers of Charleroi, who are engaged in working with the children of this age. All persons who are not teachers but who are interested in the work will be most cordially welcome.

STORE AT COAL BLUFF ROBBED BY TWO MEN

Unmasked Bandits Hold Up Proprietor, Joe Bromezzi, And Secure $32—Robbery Occurred Tuesday Evening

IS MADE TO FACE THE WALL

Bromezzi Is Forced to Stand In the Position While Thieves Make Their Escape By Front Door—Authorities Are Notified, But No Arrests Made

At 9 o'clock on Tuesday night, Joe Bromezzi, storekeeper, near Coal Bluff, was held up and robbed of $32 by two unmasked bandits, who entered the establishment, walked to the counter, drew revolvers, and commanded Bromezzi to hand over the day's receipts, which he proceeded to do.

The frightened storekeeper emptied the drawer of the cash register. He was threatened by the men when he complained that he needed the money taken. They forced him to turn his face to the wall at the rear of the small storeroom, and stand in that position until they escaped by the front entrance.

Bromezzi, after the departure of the outlaws, notified the authorities at Finleyville, and an investigation was made, but we believe that while strenuous efforts are being put forth to apprehend and arrest the robbers, a good description of them being furnished by Bromezzi, that they have made good their escape.

It is the inference of the officers of the law that the bandits are the same who held up and robbed the proprietor of Benn's Garage, on the Finleyville-Library highway, about two months ago, securing the sum of $60.

According to report Bromezzi never saw the robbers before, and it is thought that they were strangers in the vicinity of their crime.

COURT NON-SUITS IN TWO CASES

ACCIDENT PREVENTS SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

Miss Ruth Whigham, aged 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Whigham of 321 Pennsylvania avenue, North Charleroi, a freshman student in the Charleroi High school, is obliged to stay home from school, the first time in five years, on account of an injured right ankle, which she sustained Monday night while sled-riding on Pennsylvania avenue. In some manner while she was riding on the sled, her foot struck a rock, "stoved" her ankle, and broke a small bone. She is now confined to her home and will be unable to go out for several weeks.

A compulsary non-suit was entered by the court yesterday in the two cases of Joseph Zekoll, Sr., and Joseph Zekoll, Jr., against Washington county, which were on trial before Judge James I. Brownson. These were suits to recover damages from the county by reason of a fill and bridge made by the county in front of the lots of the plaintiffs near Monongahela. The plaintiffs had brought action to have viewers appointed to assess the damages. The court ruled that the law providing for the appointment of viewers in such cases does not specify a case of this nature.

The suit of Joseph N. Noroski against R. Moran and R. Morgan against Joseph J. Noroski, both of Donora set for trial this week have been marked settled and not for trial. The suits of George E. Patsch, et al, against Laura Tennant, et al and The Rosenbaum Co., against Mrs. J. Nelson have been continued; also the suit of Ada Amalong against Alice Behanna.

In the suit of the Hupp heirs against the Lacey Coal Co., taken up Tuesday involving the use and occupancy of a siding on plaintiff's property in West Bethlehem township, a verdict was taken for $300.

In the case of J. M. Purcell and wife of Donora against W. H. Beck of Elizabeth, the plaintiff moved to amend its statement, and a juror was withdrawn by the court. The cars was continued until the next term.

Gothic Club Is To Stage 'The Commuters'

The rehearsals for "The Commuters," the fourth annual play of the Gothic Literary club, are progressing very nicely under the direction of James S. ussell.

The story telsl in a humorous way of the martial troubles of Hetty and Larry Brice, a young couple who resides in a village within commuting distance of New York city. The rolcs of Hetty and Larry are portrayed by Edna Welch and "Bill" Clipman, and will be of great interest to those anticipating a sail on the sea of matrimony and for those who have already embarked it will cause many a wise shake of the head.

Margaret Berryman and "Bill" Johns in the roles of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Colton, are typical newlyweds and add much to the mirth of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolliston, who bore people with their little Bobby's precocious prattle, are well taken by Margaret McDermott and Prof. Porter.

The part of Mrs. Applebee, a great [illegible] who is never able to remember whether her quotations are from Shakespeare or Elinor Glynn, is taken by Edith Woodhall, while in the role of Mr. Applebee, another com- [illegible] find Earl Nicholson.

Mrs. Graham, Hetty's mother, is very fond of her son-in-law, and her ideas are quite contrary to the usual run of mother-in-law. This part is portrayed by Elva Majors.

Carrie, the new maid, just imported from Child's, is played by Florence Clark.

Os Sammy Fletcher, the New York bachelor, who prefers his city apartment to commuting life, we have Loren Tope.

Of interest to Club women is the meeting of the Minerva Club of Auburn Manor, with Mrs. Julia Stickney crane, a woman of much culture, played by Mary Allison, and Mrs. Skinman of Mayflower ancestry, played by Ada McCague. The membership of theclub is made up of wives of Commuters.

Barnes, the dutiful policeman, is played by Ernest Howard.

This completes the cast of characters and is worthy of the reputation the Gothic Club girls have won for themselves in the past as amateurs. [illegible] tickets are selling rapidly and may be purchased from any member of the Gothic club. Tickets will be reserved at Schroeder's Piano Store on Monday evening, March 3, at 7 o'clock. No extra charge for reservation.

Tickets for "The Communters" are on sale at Berryman's Department store.

Neighbors Procure Wood For Women Confined To Home By Illness

On Tuesday, February 26, a woodchopping was held near the Mt. Zion church in Morris township, for the benefit of Mrs. Mary Manon, who has been ill the greater part of the winter, and also for her daughter, Mrs. Minnie Welch. Mrs. Welch has cared for her mother all winter and now the daughter is sick in bed.

Friends and neighbors turned out and the men in the vicinity responded nobly, and about 18 loads of wood were cut and hauled to the Welch home. Twenty-one men sawed the wood and cut and split it ready for use.

REVENUE TAX HIGHER THAN ESTIMATED YIELD

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 28.—(United Press).—State revenue from the anthracite coal tax for 1923 will run more than $270,000 above the $7,000,000 estimated yield, Auditor General Samuel S. Lewis said today.

Compilation of the tax reported for 1923 by coal operators aggregated 7,273,788, and prospective revisions in coal values may substantially increase this figure, Lewis said.

The 1923 total was $3,500,000 more than was reported for 1922 when the ndustry was at a standstill for five months. All previous expectations of revenue under normal conditions, did not exceed $6,000,000.

A feature of the tax shown by 1923 reports was that 10 coal companies reported 50 percent of the total. Two concerns reported a tax of nearly $1,000,000 each for the year.

SCOUT DUFFLE BAG

BY H. S. HALL,
Scout Executive.

Tonight, Thursday, February 28, the two troops from Monessen, Donora, Charleroi, and Monongahela, which were determined by elimination, will gather at the Sixth Street school, Donora, at 7 p. m., promptly, to settle the supremacy of the Council. The following troops will compete:

Monessen—Troop No. 1, under Scoutmaster Haney; Troop No. 2, under Scoutmaster Blackburn.

Charleroi—Troop No. 1 under Scoutmaster Frye; Troop No. 4, under Scoutmaster Mollenauer.

Monongahela—Troop No. 1, under Scoutmaster Kinports; Troop No. 2, under Scoutmaster McIsaac.

Donora—Troop No. 2, under Scoutmaster McMahan; Troop No. 8, under Scoutmaster Murray.

The troop winning this meet will receive the Council trophy shield, which is now on exhibition at Brown's Jewelry Store in Donora. This shield will be engraved with the name of the winning troop, but must be won three successive times before it can be a permanent addition to the troop equipment.

In addition to the shield, medals will be awarded to individual Scouts for individual events, such as the Knot Tying event, Signaling, Fire by Friction, First Aid men, and the members of the Wall Scaling team. These medals must also be won three successive times before they become personal property. To the best drilled patrol will go a handsome banner.

The judges for the meet have been very carefully selected and include several of the Scout Executives from nearby Councils. In addition, a number of members of the Council have been asked to serve as officials in handling the events. They are: Commissioner J. M. Whitsett; Deputy Commissioner Edward Ciracy; Commissioner O. M. Wise; Deputy Commissioner Osborne; Mr. Larimer; J. Scott Skelly; Ben G. Binns; Clarence Keffel, and R. E. Hoopes.

The public is invited, and a large number of parents and supporters of Scouting are expected. This is the big meet of the winter season, and plans have been laid to make it one of the most successful meets which we have held, both from the standpoint of the public and the boys.

Water in the Earth Is Often Shut in Rocks

The water of the earth may be divided into three parts—that which rests on the surface, that which floats in the atmosphere and that which lies below the surface, says a report just issued by the Department of the Interior through the geological survey entitled "Outline of Ground Water Hydrology, with Definitions," by O. E. Meinzer. The subsurface or groundwater occurs largely in the pores or open spaces of rocks, but some of it is joined with the mineral matter of the rocks as "water of crystallization, and "water in solid solution." Water is also perhaps imprisoned deep in the earth, where no open spaces can exist because of the pressure caused by the tremendous weight of the overlying rocks.

Ground water is found partly in a zone that is saturated and partly in an overlying zone where it is suspended. The water in the zone of saturation is divided into two parts—that which supplies wells and springs and that which will not flow out of the rocks even when wells are drilled down to it; and the water held in suspension is divided into three parts—that which lies in the soil within the reach of plants, that which worms a capillary fringe, immediately above the zone of saturation, and that which lies between the soil plants, even when they are desperately thirsty, are not able to obtain more than a certain part of the water in the soil.

Thus the earth contains water that is available for plant growth and water that is not available for plant growth. Even that remnant which is of no use to plants is divided into two parts—that which may be removed by evaporation and that which is called hygroscopic water, which is not removed even when the soil is fully exposed to the atmosphere for a long time.

Aeronauts Don't Land to Receive Messages

The British air service in Mesopotamia has perfected a scheme for delivering written messages to planes without the necessity of their landing and stopping to pick up the documents.

A line is stretched between two poles about six feet high and perhaps twenty feet apart. To this line the message is tied. By spreading large pieces of cloth on the ground in a prearranged pattern the pilot of the aircraft is signaled that there is a message for him; the arrangement of the cloth also indicates in what direction he must fly to cross the line between the poles at right angles. If more than one plane is up, the cloth again tells which plane is to receive the message, says the New York World.

The selected plane swoops low over the poles and the pilot dangles a line to the end of which is attached a hook. This engages the line to which the message is tied, and line, message and all are dragged into the air. The pilot reels in his catch as the plane speeds away. If the message is to be delivered the plane simply dives to the point of delivery and drops the message.

The pilots have become very expert at picking up and dropping messages in this fashion.

Cow of Stone Age Unearthed in West

Dredgers working in a western river recently have uncovered what is believed to be the skull of a broad-faced cow which had been buried for at least 50,000 years below the bottom of the stream, says Popular Mechanics. The animal to which the fossil belonged, scientists say, was the forerunner of the buffalo, the cow and others of the bovine family. Horns measuring 20 inches around their base still were attached to the specimen.

Fly 100 Miles an Hour

Four miles in three minutes is the estimated speed of the carrier pigeons, which many bird students believe is the most consistently fast flier among birds. In a recent test at Ghent these pigeons made 100 miles an hour. Plover, godwits and curlews have been known to fly to feeding grounds 22,000 miles away in a single flight. The osprey, or sea hawk, has almost unbelievable speed in swooping down upon its prey.

She Was Experienced

The tramp encountered the lady of the house on her front doorstep, and, whining in the approved manner, he exclaimed:

"Will you allow me to ask you the question, madam; you know what I want."

The Lady—Yes, I know what you want badly, but I've only one cake of soap in the house and the servant is using that!—London Answers.

ANOTHER CHARMING DISTRICT IN CANADA OPENS TO SUMMER TOURISTS

A region of wild grandeur and excellent fishing opportunities is the country along the north arm of Georgian Bay, itself an arm of Lake Huron in Ontario. While a certain number of adventurous ones have known of the charms of this district and have been enjoying their summers there for years, the lack of hotels and permanent camps limited the number of visitors. Now that a commodious bungalow camp is being built at Algoma there is promise that it will become a well known and popular resort.

The bungalow camps which have sprung up in Ontario and the Canadian Rockies within the past few years supply a long felt want. Good accommodations at reasonable rates allow many summer travelers to penetrate into hitherto almost inaccessible country that has been known only to the sportsman who could afford guides and a rather elaborate camping outfit.

Now the general public may detrain at stations within easy walking distance of these bungalow camps which avoids the old-time necessity of camping out. These resorts also make a strong appeal to those who seek rest and recuperation in the health-giving northland.

Three of these camps were built in Ontario, two in the famous fishing areas of French River and Nipigon. The third is located on one of the many islands that dot the Lake-of-the-Woods and draws a large clientele from the twin cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis, as well as Winnipeg and other Canadian cities. Trans-Canada travelers find a few days' stopover here a delightful interlude.

The 1924 addition to these Ontario camps is at Algoma, 350 miles from Toronto. The journey carries one northward along Georgian Bay through a highly picturesque country with constant glimpses of the blue island-dotted waters of the Bay and through a succession of summer resorts. The last 25 miles of the trip is along the shore of the Bay, the road being carved from the great rampart of massed rocks against which the waves dash themselves into rainbow spray.

Excellent trails through flower-carpeted virgin forests radiate in all directions; wild berries are found in profusion; fishing is enjoyed in streams, lakes and bays. The geologist will find a rich field for his pursuits along the rock-bound shore; the botanist will find many new blossoms that thrive only in this exhilarating atmosphere. The casual tourist out for a good time will find something to fill each hour, while the evenings in the social hall of the camp are pleasant occasions with dancing, cards and mah jong parties.

FEDERAL ENFORCEMENT.

The battle between bootleggers and enforcement agents in an alley off Pennsylvania avenue, Washington, which resulted in the accidental shooting and dangerous wounding of a passing United States Senator, adds interest to Attorney General Daugherty's report on the enforcement of Federal prohibition and the amount of work it has put upon the Federal courts. The report indicates that the Federal courts are pretty nearly swamped with cases of violation. Although 115,000 such cases have been disposed of in four years, their number continues to swell alarmingly. In 1921, the first full fiscal year covered [illegible] gun; in 1922, nearly 35,000; in 1923, no less than 49,000. While the number of convictions last year is nearly double that of 1921, the number of pending cases more than doubled.

As to deterrents, we read that "heavier penalties have been secured, and undoubtedly this is the reason for the flood of violations being checked; if they actually have been." That "if they actually have been" is eloquent of doubt, as is also Mr. Daugherty's further statement: "It may be that the maximum number of violations has already been reached." He would naturally hesitate to say more than "it may be" in a report with figures indicating a rapid increase during several years. It might be argued, however, that the great number of cases coming before the Federal courts is due in part to the policy of the enforcement agents—that is, if the Portland Oregonian is well informed. According to that newspaper, 50 cases of Scotch whisky come into Portland every day and "not once a month is a large shipment stopped," the enforcement officers nabbing only small offenders in order to make a "grand record of fines collected." The newspaper quoted goes so far as to assert that there is no encouragement from Federal, State or police authorities to "get" the big bootlegger; "it is the number, not the kind of convictions, that count." If this is a true picture of the conditions and the policy outside as well as inside of Oregon, we need not wonder that the problem facing the authorities grows both in magnatude and complexity.

As a result of the campaign instituted by the Society of American Dramatists, radio broadcasting concerns will no longer be able to appropriate at will and without compensation copyrighted plays and novels, which is as it should be. The right to broadcast is in the same class wit hthe right to publish or to give dramatic repreesntation.

Following the announcement that Lincoln's ancestry has been traced back to an ironmaster of that name comes the story that George Washington's family tree reaches back to Edward I. of England as its royal trunk. About all that can be said is that, if the tracing has been honest, British royalty is honored, not the Father of his Country.

Generous.

The two men went into a country inn in order to obtain some refreshments.

The drinks were about to be paid for by one when the other broke in.

"Look here," he exclaimed, "I've been staying at your house three months. You've looked after me very well. You've taken me to theaters and you have always paid. Fair play. You mustn't pay for this drink."

"But—" began the other.

"No, no," said the second man, "we'll toss for it."

That Question of Age.

A pretty sixteen-year-old flapper attended a dance the other night and while taking lunch afterward at a cafe saw one of the leading citizens of the town in the cafe. "I never was so shocked in my life," she said in recounting the experience, "as when I went into the restaurant and saw him there. Why, he's forty if he's a day. Think of him being there at one o'clock in the morning".—Great Bend Tribune.

The Wrong Cue.

The street orator thought he would like a little more enthusiasm at his meetings, and arranged with a friend that he should stand below his platform and shout "Hear! Hear!" whenever a pea was dropped on his head.

It worked all right until the speaker became excited, and suddenly his man began to shout "Hear! Hear!" unceasingly.

Then a hoarse voice was heard to exclaim: "Shut up, you fool—the bloom bag's bust!"

THE DESERT AND THE MILK OF HUMAN KINDNESS

"The locality is irrelevant" is the dictum of a successful woman of Tucson, Ariz., when asked whether she thinks the business college graduate should go to a big city for work. "I advise her not to go if she can find work at home," Mrs. Reynolds continues. "There's just one provision that is important. It is that the girl can adhere to a standard of morality which will always preclude loss of self-respect."

This is no preachment from a professional reformer. Novela Routt Reynolds has learned that "an honest code pays in the end" from the many-sided business world that the Reynolds Commercial school keeps her in touch with.

World war need found Mrs. Reynolds and other business women of Tucson just as readily as if they had hurried to Washington or New York. It even brought legitimate prosperity since her service lay in equipping an unparalleled number of students for [illegible].

Tucson holds, Mrs. Reynolds has found, an extra appeal to the heart of any employed woman who has a spark of the material fire. The hordes of health seekers need cheery suggestions on how to adapt themselves to arid surroundings, unaccustomed conditions and homesickness. Mrs. Reynolds declares this chance for service where service is so sorely and so constantly needed is the most interesting part of being a business woman in Arizona.

Like many successful women, Mrs Reynolds has developed outside her business an association that keeps her in touch with what women are doing everywhere. In her case the doorway to world interests is membership in the Daughters of the American Revolution. She is historian, Tucson chapter, and member at large on the national historical research committee. In April she was sent as delegate from the D. A. R. to Washington for a conference of the Woman's Universal alliance, a world organization.

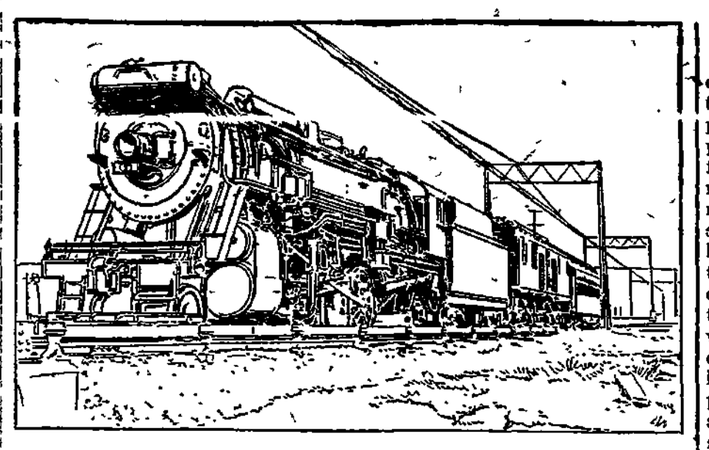
What the World Is Doing

AS SEEN BY POPULAR MECHANICS MAGAZINE



Electric Locomotive Is Victor in Tug-o'-War

Two monsters of the rails, one operated by electricity, or "white coal," and the other by steam, staged a spectacular tug-o'-war at Erie, Pa., recently before railway officials from all parts of the country. Puffing and snorting, with its huge driving wheels turning ahead, the steam locomotive was pulled backward, despite its utmost effort to hold its own. Both engines were of the same weight. The steamer is one of ten built for service in Mexico, where it will haul freight over grades twice as steep as those usually found in the United States.

Men Outnumbered by Women

In Census of World

That there are more women than men in the world, is the conclusion drawn by a statistician after recent researches. Among the 475 000 000 inhabitants of the earth, there are 250 000 000 women, 25 000 000 more than the number of men, his figures show. In Germany there are 1,026 women to each 1,000 men; in Russia, 1 400 women to each 1,000 men; and in France and Belgium, respectively, 1 093 and 1 033 for each 1 000 men. The 1920 census reports for the United States show that there are 1 040 males to every 1,000 females in this country. The preponderance of women in foreign lands is believed to be partly explained by the death toll of numerous wars in the past few generations.

"Soap Holes" of Cowboy Days

Become Valuable Clay

"Soap holes," once thought by cattle rangers of the West to be dangerous mires of worthless slime, have become mines of mineral clay of great commercial value. Bentonite, as the substance taken from the deposits is called, has been made into an ingredient to give body and weight to paper and to aid in the mixing of wall plaster and pastes. Soap makers experimenting with it are said to have found it possessed of good cleaning qualities and beneficial to the skin. Many of the clays and massage creams used by beauty parlors are mixed with it as a base. In the raw state it lies near the surface. Since it absorbs almost seven times its volume of water, it forms a soft, slippery mass where the deposits are in low ground.

Detachable Bird Houses

It is becoming quite the fashion for country, suburban, and even city dwellers to provide small bird houses in yards and parks. They are usually mounted on poles or in trees, and as they are securely fastened, it is not an easy matter to remove them when it is desired to paint, repair, or clean them, which is occasionally necessary. A method of mounting a bird house so that it can readily be detached is shown in the drawing. The top of the supporting post is trimmed down to fit loosely inside a No. 2 fruit can, which is cut and slotted as shown. The can is nailed to the underside of the bird house and slipped over the end of the pole. Nails are then driven into the slots and bent downward at right angles as shown, so that the can will not slip off. When removing the bird house the nails are turned to the position shown in the lower detail, when the can may easily be released by an upward pull.

Romance Blated Brings Girl $150,000

When the will of Louis T. Lehmeyer, ninety-two years old, was filed in New York recently, a bequest of $150,000 was made to Miss Elizabeth Rosalie Wurthmann, attractive young school teacher, and thereby hangs a tale of a blasted romance three-quarters of a [illegible] the Kansas City Star.

Seventy-five years ago in Mainz, Germany, two young men were deeply devoted to a girl. They were boon companions, and because it was inevitable that one must lose should the other win their friendship was unstrained when Lehmeyer's rival and friend led the girl to the altar. Lehmeyer was best man and he wished them godspeed on their matrimonial voyage.

Lehmeyer's friend and his wife emigrated to America. A year later Lehmeyer came also. His friend had settled in New Jersey. Louis Lehmeyer chose Manhattan. As the years passed Lehmeyer acquired one parcel of property after another. He built tenements and apartment houses. He was known as a man who always had money.

On late summer afternoons of recent years Lehmeyer would sit in the garden of the home where lived the daughter of the woman he had loved in his youth. Elizabeth Rosalie, the granddaughter of her whose image was graved on his heart, would knit in the shadow of the vines. Lehmeyer, with a shawl thrown around his shoulders, turned his thoughts to the Mainz of yesteryear and murmured:

"My dear, I wish you could have seen your grandmother in her youth. Ah! but she was one of God's noble-women."

Resourceful Girl Who "Parked" Her Sleeves

I am not going to reveal her identity more than to say that her name is Margaret, and she lives in Hamburg, but I will say that on a certain occasion this young woman showed herself possessed of resourcefulness.

When she dressed for that reception, or whatever it was, she did not know that it was going to be a formal affair, so she put on a dress or a gown or a frock or—gee, being a man is something awful when it comes to writing about women's clothes. Guess I better call it a dress. She put on a dress with long sleeves.

When she got to the place where the reception or whatever it was, was going on, she discovered that every other woman there had on a sleeveless gown. I guess gown is right. But did she let that spoil the occasion for her? Not this young woman. Not by a long shot. She slipped upstairs, slipped into a room, slipped off her dress, ripped out its sleeves, slipped the "gown" on again and slipped downstairs in less time than it takes to tell it.

Approaching her hostess she said: "Tell me, please, where I can park these sleeves."—Buffalo News.

Her Servant Borrowed the Guests' Napkins

"Personal property meant very little to Persian servants. On one occasion a certain charge d'affaires, dining with some English residents, noticed his hostess, who was sitting next to him, turn as red as fire.

"Whatever will you think of us?" said she, pointing to the initials on her napkin, which were those of her guest.

Her servant, it appeared, being of opinion that their mistress' linen was not sufficiently good for such a distinguished visitor, had sent to the latter's butler for a supply of the legation napkins, which they placed on the table as a matter of course.—Unconventional Memoirs, by Ralph Nevill.

U. S. Roquefort Cheese

America is to have its own roquefort cheese, which will look, taste, and smell just like that which has been made near the village of Roquefort in southern France for 2,000 years. The French roquefort is made from sheep milk and ripened in cool, windy caves. Lacking the strain of milking sheep and the windy caves, United States government experts have successfully substituted cow's milk and built insulated curing rooms where conditions found in the original Roquefort caverns are simulated.

Efficient

Willis—How is the efficiency expert coming on at your office?

Gillis—Fine. He was such a success for the boss that we employed him for a week.

"Did he make good?"

"I'll say he did! He showed us a new way to beat the time clock, taught us a lot of brand new excuses for being late, and how to hook the boss's cigars without being caught."

Ostrich-Feather Industry

The United States formerly took about half of the South African production of ostrich feathers, but changes in fashion have reduced the American demand, and the industry today is in a very depressed condition. South African exports of ostrich feathers amounted to about $2,000,000 in 1922, compared with $15,000,000 in 1913.

In the Spring

"I wonder what is wrong with my watch?" said the father. "Possibly it wants cleaning."

"Oh, no, daddy," said his little son. "It is quite clean. I had it in the bathroom yesterday and I washed all the works!"—Boys' Life.

Music as Remedy for Diseases and Poison

"Music which evokes the normal expansive emotions makes for health and happiness," writes Dr. Agnes Savill in "Music, Health and Happiness." She seeks to prove that a half-hour of listening to the right kind of music will heal certain diseases more surely than [illegible].

"The fact that the predominating psychical effect of music is emotional rather than intellectual implies, of necessity, that the condition of the heart and circulation is modified in some manner. Pleasant and continuous emotion causes a rise of blood pressure, a slower rhythm, and a firmer action of the heart, with a consequent improvement of the general health.

Doctor Savill tells of an experiment recently conducted in an asylum.

"The piano was played for half an hour to 1,400 insane women. It was found that all responded to the rhythm; in some the pulse rate rose; others became restless and beat time. . . . With slow music the worst cases were soothed, even sent to sleep. After several experiments it was noted that all showed improvement.

"Hecker," continues Doctor Savill, "quotes the evidence from old Italian records as to the therapeutic value of music for the victims of tarantula and viper bites. When the patients were senseless or pining away, music alone could cure them."

Voices of Criminals Recorded on Machine

Invention of a new instrument, which may make possible the detection of criminals by records of their voices, similar to the finger-print system, is reported by Prof. Knight Dunlap, Johns Hopkins university psychologist, says a Baltimore letter to the Detroit Free Press.

The apparatus is a string galvanometer, permitting accurate recording of shades of tone in human speech and their photographic reproduction on large scale. Doctor Dunlap worked a year before announcing success.

The capacity of singers to strike and sustain true pitch may be revealed, Doctor Dunlap reported. Variations in the human voice also will be recorded for experimental phonetics and study of the psychology of languages. In his experiments the scientist recorded the voices of many animals, including the trills in the song birds. Special study was made of birds which imitate the songs of other birds. Faint purrings of kittens and whispers of human beings were recorded.

Buddhist Goddess Is Like Virgin Mary

The goddess Doima is the Buddhist counterpart of the Virgin Mary of the Christians, says the Detroit News. Her nuns forsake the world and all its pleasures, and, dressed in red cloaks, barefooted and with shaved heads, go about relieving pain and sorrow. Their fare is frugal and their lives bare of material comforts.

The nuns know nothing of the great world outside their mountain fastness, except what an occasional white traveler tells them. Such visitors are accorded every courtesy and eagerly besought for tales of other countries. In departing they receive the blessing of these good folk.

Sand-Lime Brick Popular

Sand-lime brick, which can be made almost anywhere, is taking the place of ordinary brick where building is done at a distance from brickyards, according to the United States bureau of standards. The mortar acts as a filling for the chinks between the bricks, and a properly built brick wall will stand up about as well if the mortar doesn't adhere to the bricks at all.

"The bond between brick and mortar is surprisingly weak," says the bureau, "but its strength is of very minor importance in determining the strength of the masonry."

Injun Joe Is Dead

Injun Joe, called to fame by Mark Twain in "Tom Sawyer," died the other day at the age of one hundred and two. For more than seventy-five years he had answered the call of the wild up and down the Mississippi river, and never wandered far from its banks. The Hannibal Courier-Post, says Injun Joe, whose real name was Joe Douglas, emphatically denied being the original of the fictional Indian, but Hannibal residents insist it is so. There was much of romance in his life. He was found in an abandoned Indian village of Callaway county, and reared by a white man.

The Waiter's Tip

They had spent some happy weeks in California. The sunshine was brilliant and the hotel fare was good. On the last day the waiter had their table decorated with flowers.

"A pretty touch of sentiment," commented ma.

"More likely 'good business,'" declared pa.

"Huh?" asked ma, in surprise.

"Have you noticed what these flowers are?" asked the observant pa.

"Forget-me-nots."

Not What He Needed

A new baby had arrived in a certain household, and it was expected that the little brother would give it a hearty welcome.

Instead, he was very annoyed when the news was announced, and, going into his mother's room, remarked with a frown, "That is all right, spending money on a baby when we've been wanting a wireless aerial so long."

Suicide and Climate Are Closely Related

The relation of suicide to climatic and other factors presents the results of the extensive statistical analysis of the relation of suicide to climatic and racial factors, and to industrialism, occupation, urban conditions, age and sex. It has long been recognized that the suicide rate is higher among the Nordic race than among Alpine or Mediterranean peoples. Mixed peoples usually have a higher rate than either of the pure races to which they belong. Foreigners in New York show a higher suicide rate than in the countries from which they came, writes Dr. J. R. Milner in "American Journal of Hygiene."

The lowest rate is found in Ireland and the highest in Saxony, while the rate varies in different parts of France, according to the racial composition of the population. Among Asiatic peoples, the Japanese and Chinese rates are high, while in India it is low (4.8 per 100,000). India appears to be the only country where female suicides exceed the male.

The general trend of suicide rates has been upward during the last century, but the higher rates tend to become stabilized. Germany, France, Denmark and Sweden have high rates; Britain, Norway and the Netherlands low rates. In the United States the rates are lowest in the South and [illegible] in the West.

One Tagged Codfish Hooked Three Times

Up to date the records of the recapture of 128 tagged fish have been received by the bureau of fisheries. Considering the vast area of the fishing grounds off the New England and Canadian coasts these returns are thought to be quite satisfactory.

Since the last week in October 15 tagged fish have been taken off the New Jersey coast, indicating that the codfish are migrating toward the South. It is expected that a comparatively large number of tagged fish will be caught in the vicinity of New Jersey during the coming winter and spring, and practically all pleasure fishing boats frequenting this locality have been notified to watch for tags.

While assembling the data at hand a matter of unusual interest was discovered in connection with codfish, tag No. 231. This fish was tagged June 28, 1923, on Nantucket Shoals, Mass. It was recaptured by the Halcyon on October 3, 1923, and again on October 15, 1923, in each case on Nantucket Shoals, where it was first tagged.

It must be considered a rare occurrence to catch the same fish three times on a fishing ground many square miles in area and at least 20 miles from land.—United States Fisheries Service Bulletin.

U. S. Annual Rainfall Thirty Inches Deep

A vivid picture of the amount of rain that falls upon the United States is given by a Washington scientist. It is equivalent, he says, to ten Mississippi rivers flowing constantly. Otherwise measured, it equals 30 inches of water for the entire area, making a total volume of 152,000,000,000,000 cubic feet. But this is only half the amount that would be necessary to maintain the full productivity of the soil of the whole country. One-third of this amount runs down to the sea and rivers. The problem for engineers to solve is the utilization to the utmost of the supply that nature furnishes.

First Telegram in 1792

The average person, if asked who invented the telegraph, would answer unhesitatingly, Morse. In reality, however, what Morse invented was the electric telegraph. While Morse was still a child, a French scientist named Claude Chappe had perfected the first long-distance telegraph in the world. The first message sent by the new telegraph, from Lille to Paris, told of a glorious victory over the Austrians: "Conde is restored to the republic. The surrender took place this morning at 6 o'clock."—Detroit News.

Yes, He Said "No"

A little boy had returned home after having been out to dinner.

Said the mother: "I trust that when it came to the extra helpings you had manners enough to say 'No?'"

"Yes, ma; I said 'No' several times."

"You did?" exclaimed his mother, skeptically.

"Yes; Mrs. Stout kept asking me if I had enough."

Highways of Argentina

Extensive highway construction in the province of Buenos Aires is provided for in a recently enacted law. The act provides for the progressive construction of about 10,000 kilometers (6,214 miles) of highways within the province. The office of publicity of the ministry of public works of the province is preparing a pamphlet containing information on the project, including the law itself and 11 plans.

She Likes the Show

Did you ever see a show so interesting you could sit through 128 performances? Doris Symonds has seen the musical comedy, "Little Nellie Kelly," that many times in Boston. Voluntarily, too, she paid admission; wasn't an usher. Doris is fortunate. She demonstrates that she can go through life without monotony. Life is a repetition of the same old show. There is novelty only during the intermissions.

WOMAN AILING FOR A YEAR

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Happy Results

Newcastle, Pa.—"I was all run-down and everybody thought I was going into a decline. I had been ailing for a year with pains in my right side so that I could hardly stand on my feet. When I walked I felt as if something was falling. I was not able to do any work and had a nurse most of the time. She spoke to me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I gave it a fair trial. Some women think one bottle should cure them, but I did not stop at that. I took more and got better, and am able ever since to do my own housework. There was a time, when I would complain of not feeling well, that my husband would say, 'Go to the doctor.' But now he will tell me to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's, and it has always helped me. I have had druggists tell me that they had something better, but they don't tell me that now, for I take no other. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound now for five years. Any woman who cares to call or write, I will be glad to tell her how it helped me."—Mrs. MABEL LIST SHERBAHN, 515 Newell Ave., Newcastle, Pa. For sale by druggists everywhere.

McCRACKEN DAIRY.

Are We Extravagant?

Here are some costs on Studebaker cars—
Would you have us cut them down?

WE are lavish on Studebaker cars. For some features we pay three and four times what they need cost.

Here are some of those costs which affect you. Tell us—would you want any one reduced?

Our prices on high-grade Sixes run from $1025 to $2685. They stand at bottom in the fine-car field, despite these extra costs. All because the demand requires 150,000 cars per year.

But they could be lower if we cut these costs. Would you have us do it?

Engineering—$500,000

Our engineering departments cost us $500,000 yearly.

Our Department of Research and Experiment employs 125 skilled men. It spends vast sums in analyses and tests.

Our Bureau of Methods and Standards fixes every formula, every requirement. It makes 500,000 tests per year to maintain our high standards.

We make 30,000 inspections on every Studebaker car during manufacture before it goes out of the factory. We employ 1,200 men to do that.

Those are heavy costs. But remember how they are divided—by 150,000 cars per year. They form but a trifle per car.

$50,000,000 in plants

We have invested $50,000,000 in modern plants and equipment. $8,000,000 in drop forge plants. $10,000,000 in body plants—as the only way to do Studebaker coach work.

These plants are equipped with 12,500 up-to-date machines, many of them very expensive.

But consider the alternative. Profits to other makers. We save up to $300 for you by building Studebaker bodies in our own body-plants.

15% extra on steel

On some steels we pay a bonus of 15% to the maker. Just to get our formulas exact. We could save that extra on "commercial runs."

We are one of the very few builders, either in Europe or America, using crankshafts machined on all surfaces. It costs us $500,000 a year to give you this. But it results in that smoothness of operation, that lack of vibration which characterizes only the most expensive cars.

Every Studebaker car is Timken-equipped. The Special-Six and the Big-Six have more Timken bearings than any car selling under $5,600 in America. The Light-Six more than any competitive car within $1,500 of its price.

Other costly extras

Our bodies are finished with 18 operations, including 15 coats of paint and varnish.

We use real leather upholstery. We could cut the price of our open models $25.00 were we willing to use imitation instead of genuine leather.

We upholster our closed models in the finest Chase Mohair. Cotton or ordinary wool, or a combination of both, would enable us to reduce our price from $100 to $150 per car. But we would thus sacrifice Studebaker quality and reputation.

The many extras on our large closed cars would cost much if you bought them. The nickel-plated bumpers, the extra disc wheels and cord tires, the steel trunk, the courtesy light, motometer, etc.

Extras to our men

We pay the highest labor scale. Then we add extras to it.

Men who are with us five years or over get 10% of their year's wages in an anniversary check. Those anniversary checks last year cost us $1,300,000.

After two years all employes get a week of vacation with pay. That cost us last year $225,000.

Old employes who retire get pensions.

All this to keep men with us while they grow more and more efficient. To make them happy, so they do their best.

This is all paid by people who buy Studebaker cars. But we figure that each such dollar saves us five dollars. Don't you agree with us?

The utmost in car value

The object is to give you the utmost in car value. You will find we do that if you make comparisons. In any Studebaker model, you will find scores of ways in which it excels any rival car.

That is why, in the fine-car field, the Studebaker leads. The demand has almost trebled in the past three years. These cars have become the sensation of Motordom. On some of these models we have never yet been able to meet the demand.

We spend money lavishly. We build without regard to cost. But, in our quantity production, we still bring costs to bottom.

You should learn what these things mean to you before you buy a car.

Don't Buy a Fine Car
until you see the leaders

Studebakers hold the top place in the fine-car field today.

Last year, 145,167 people chose them against all rivals. They paid $201,000,000 for them.

For 72 years the Studebaker name has stood for the utmost in quality. It will never stand for less.

Today there are assets of $90,000,000 staked on the Studebaker cars.

Don't pay $1,000 or more for a car without knowing what Studebaker offers. You will find here some scores of advantages. Learn what they mean to you.

CITY GIVES UP A PLAN MADE

Akron, Ohio, February 26—(United Press)—The Rubber City today gave up its plan of rubber tire transportation.

Street cars thrown out February 1 resumed service as rapidly as ice and snow, packed down by heavy busses, could be removed from the streets.

City-wide motor transportation, dream of Mayor Rybolt, as a means of boosting Akron's basic industry, rubber, has failed. Rybolt hoped the plan would "take" in other cities.

DIRECTOR GIVES CAUSTIC OPINION

Butler Says the Police of Philadelphia Can't Enforce Prohibition As Long As Pure Grain Alcohol Is Released

MUCH OF IT FOR BOOTLEG

Belief Entertained That Thousands of Gallons of It Used For Illegal Purposes — Cites Reasons Through Virtue of Firms And Companies Using It

Philadelphia, Feb. 28—(United Press)—The police of Philadelphia will never be able to enforce the prohibition law effectively as long as federal authorities continue to release pure grain alcohol in unlimited quantites, according to Director of Public Safety Butler.

"A total of 428,700 gallons of alcohol are handled by industries here each month," Butler said. "This alcohol is released legally but I am convinced that thousands of gallons of it goes into the production of bootleg liquor.

"Just think, a beauty parlor draws 11,000 gallons a month, an ice-cream manufacturer gets 5,000 gallons a month, a tobacco company gets 21,000 a month and one undertaker gets 9,000 gallons.

"Before this avalanche of alcohol which we know is seeping into the hands of illegal distillers we cannot check dry law violations for we find that 95 per cent of the booze seized now is manufactured from alcohol of the kind released by the government."

TRAINMAN HAS LEGS FRACTURED

Charles Edwards of Glassport, a railroad conductor, was struck by a train on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad yesterday, suffering a compound fracture of both legs and serious internal injuries. He was removed to the McKeesport hospital for treatment.

After the arrival of Edwards at the institution, an operation was performed. Edwards has a wife and two children.

How the accident occurred is unknown. Edwards was found along the tracks, and evidently stepping from behind his train, which was standing on a siding, walked in the pain of another train.

SLEUTHS BREAK UP RUM-RUNNING SCHEME TODAY

Philadelphia, Feb. 28. — (United Press).—A rum-running scheme whereby large quantities of liquor and alcohol was being shipped from Philadelphia to Richmond, Va., each night in Pullman cars, was broken up by detectives here early today.

Railroad authorities of Richmond advised the police here that thousands of gallons of illegal liquor were seeping into the Southern city each month from Philadelphia and an investigation was started.

City Hall detectives searched a Pullman car at Broad Street station early today and discovered four telescope suit cases, containing 45 gallons of alcohol, hidden below a berth.

The detectives secreted themselves in a vacant compartment and waited for the owners of the liquor to appear but they evidently were aware of the seizure and failed to show up before the train left.

MRS. HARRIS IS ANXIOUS TO MAKE REBUTTAL

New York, Feb. 28—(United Press).—"Just wait until it's my turn," exclaimed Mrs. Klaine Lee Harris today, angry under the persistent assaults against her girlhood character made in the supreme court by counsel for her banker husband, Beverley Harris, who is suing for annulment of their marriage.

Mrs. Harris was restrained with difficulty by her counsel from interrupting the trial when witnesses for the plaintiff persisted in declaring she was "Susie Lee" of Memphis, Tenn., who lived and traveled with the gambler, Eli Selmour.

Twice the pretty defendant, who claims to be a descendant of a historic Lee family, owners of a line of Mississippi steamboats, jumped to her feet in indignation, pounding the counsel table, as witnesses made damaging statements concerning her youth.

"Sit down," Judge Wasservogel admonished her, and after her counsel had whispered to her and calmed her, Mrs. Harris subsided.

Her husband's counsel is seeking to prove that she fraudulently led Harris, a former vice-president of the National City bank, into marriage, misrepresenting herself and concealing her past.

Further depositions and witnesses for the plaintiff were to be heard before George Gordon Battle opens the case for the defense.

THE REVIVALS COME TO CLOSE

Seventy-five men, women, boys and girls, at the revival meetings held at Millsboro, announced their determination to eschew wickedness and henceforth walk in the footsteps of Jesus of Galilee.

Evangelist J. D. Ely, who was greatly inspired by the success of the meetings, would have continued them longer, but he had previously arranged to conduct a revival at Vestaburg, which opened last night. At Vestaburg, Rev. Mr. Ely will have William Laight as the leader of his choir and Mrs. Walter Vandergrift as pianist, both of whom participated in the services at Millsboro in a similar capacity.

"Millsboro responded in an exceptional manner," said Rev. Mr. Ely. "I appreciate very much the courtesy and hospitality extended me and the loyalty as shown by the attendance. The large number of professions and those who rededicated their lives to the cause of Christ show that Millsboro has a great future as a Christian community."

The board of stewards of the Methodist Episcopal church and the session of the Presbyterian church will meet with the pastors of the two denominations, Rev. R. C. VanCamp and Rev. Frank Fish, and extend a reception to those professing during the revival.

The services at Vestaburg will be conducted similarly to those held at Millsboro. Daily prayer services will be held, with a meeting each night except Saturday. On Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be a special meeting for men, in addition to the morning and evening services.

Widow Cries for Joy

"I couldn't eat anything but raw eggs and sweet milk and was so weak I could hardly walk across the room. I would have been in my grave today if I hadn't taken Mayr's Wonderful Remedy when I did. When I think how I have suffered with my stomach, and how good I feel now I cry for joy." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.
